Roofs.com.au Roof Repair vs. Roof Replacement: When Is it Time for a New Roof? In some cases, emergency repairs may only be a temporary fix, and it could be more cost-effective to replace the entire roof. Some signs that indicate it might be time for a roof replacement rather than a repair include:

- Frequent Need for Repairs : If you find yourself needing emergency repairs regularly, it may be a sign that your roof is nearing the end of its life.
- Extensive Damage : In cases of severe storm damage or widespread leaks, repairing the roof may no longer be a viable solution.
- Age of the Roof : Most roofing materials, such as tiles or shingles, have a lifespan of 20-30 years. If your roof is near or past its expected lifespan, it may be time to consider a roof replacement .
