Request a Quote Roofs.com.au When to Consider Roof Replacement Over time, roofs naturally degrade due to exposure to the elements. While timely roof repairs can extend the life of your roof, there comes a point when replacement is the only viable option. Here are common signs that you may need a roof replacement: Frequent roof repairs : If you find yourself frequently calling for repairs, it might be more cost-effective to replace your roof. Severe storm damage : Significant hail, wind, or tree damage can compromise the integrity of your roof, especially in metal, tile, or flat roofing systems. Roof age : Most roofing materials have a lifespan of 20-50 years. If your roof is approaching or beyond this age, replacement may be necessary. Visible structural issues : Sagging, cracked, or missing roofing materials can be indicators of structural instability that requires a new roof. Request a Quote Roofs.com.au
